Ngā Pūrākau Nō Ngā Rākau 1 July–8 October 2023

Ngā Pūrākau Nō Ngā Rākau is a new film installation by artist Nova Paul (Te Urioroi, Te Parawhau, and Te Māhurehure ki Whatitiri, Ngāpuhi). Paul's films consider the poetics and politics of place to create an image of tino rangatiratanga – Māori sovereignty.

Ayesha Green: Folk Nationalism 1 July–15 October 2023

A significant body of paintings, drawing and sculptures by acclaimed artist, Ayesha Green (Ngāti Kahungunu, Kāi Tahu). Folk Nationalism encapsulates Green's career-long interrogation of culturally loaded images from the history of Aotearoa.

George Watson: Beauty Incarnate 1 July–15 October 2023

Beauty Incarnate is an installation by George Watson (Ngāti Porou, Moriori, Ngāti Mutunga) which unsettles the established portrait of the modernist Pākehā author Katherine Mansfield, on the 100th anniversary of her death.

Stories 6 May–3 September 2023

Sione Tuivailala Monū presents Stories, a range of moving image works first made for their Instagram profile, alongside their sculptural work with nimamea'a tuikakala, the Tongan fine art of flower design.

Ancestor Technologies 6 May–3 September 2023

Stella Brennan's new installation of silk banners re-presents an archive of 120-year-old glass plate negatives made by her great-great aunt, Louise Laurent, to consider the ways we can navigate the span of time and distance through artmaking.

The Jewel Room 6 May–3 September 2023

Holographic gems, replica diamonds, sculptural necklaces and pendants glitter and shine in this theatrically staged exhibition by contemporary jewellery artist Moniek Schrijer. The Jewel Room is a playful and subversive take on the consumption of high-end jewellery.
